The Edmonton Rifle Club roll was forwarded to the D. O. C. of military district No. 10, by Saturday's mail, together with all the necessary papers including requisitions in duplicate for twenty-five Lee-Enfield rifles and fifteen thousand rounds of ammunition. Names are still coming in. Seventy-nine will have been sworn in to date. Mr. Pratt will receive further applications as they are received.

Mr. Bert Edwards, of the Brackley employ here, who served in South Africa with the Strathcona Regiment, has been chosen as one of the twenty-five to represent that corps at the coronation. Trooper Edwards is being congratulated upon the honor and is in opinion on the opposition of the industry of that city and will shortly combine it with his own.

Mr. Edwards, according to a letter recently received from him, never were so high on the western ranges as at present, ranging from the 1000 foot level, the latter being the prevailing figure. The mining camps and coast trade are creating an active market at present.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Pratt, owing to the precarious state of the latter's health, will remove to their old home in the east. Their furniture and household effects will be offered for sale at the Albert Hotel on Friday, the 23rd inst., at 7:30 p.m. It will be remembered that Mr. and Mrs. Pratt are the parents of the little 3-year-old boy who was burnt to death last week. We ask the public to attend the sale in full force.

Mr. J. Carscadden returned from Calgary this morning at 2 a.m. after a 24 hour ride. Owing to the rains the road was in a dreadful condition. Mr. Carscadden was delighted with the show of purebred stock which he considered will be of great and lasting benefit to the country. Over 300 bulls valued at $22,000, changed hands at the public sale, apart from those disposed of by private contract.

David Stewart returned from the north on Saturday, where he had been attending the Calgary show of purebred stock. He states that the show was a great success in every way. "Bob" owned by W. R. Stewart, brother of above, took 1st prize, a silver cup, for standard bred stallions, and a 2-year-old stallions. Dave brought with him one galloper, Dave, and six pacers viz., Margery, A. Kirk, Jack Stewart, Dave S. and 2 Kirk fillies which will all be fitted up for the Edmonton Industrial Exhibition and sports to be held on the 1st, 2nd and 3rd of July.

THE WEATHER.
Rain commenced about noon on Saturday and continued at intervals all day. Sunday was wet all day. Last night rain was steady with intermittent heavy downpours. The Saskatchewan, which has risen about 14 feet since Saturday, is now level with the top of the pier at Fraser's mill.

ZACKLINSKI VS. KORCHENSKI.

An interesting case, for the parties concerned, is now being heard in the supreme court before Mr. Justice Scott. The suit, which is likely to be lengthy, is for the possession of the church building and property at Wostok, northeast Alberta.

Some Galicians formed themselves into a congregation and built a church which they claim was to be a Greek church. Father Zacklinski, of the Greek Catholic church, became priest. He was, afterwards, deposed. The congregation divided and Father Korchenko, of the Orthodox Greek church was invited, by one party to become their pastor. After a short term there was some disagreement. The suit to decide is—who has the title to the property. The Greek Catholics or Uniates on the one side and the Greek Orthodox church on the other.

Colonization Syndicate.

A syndicate consisting of western Canadian and Minnesota capitalists, has been organized with a capital of $3,500,000, and has purchased 1,100,000 acres of land from Messrs. Osler, Hammond & Nanton, on the Regina and Long Lake railroad, which is situated in Assiniboia, extending from Craik, 75 miles north of Regina, almost to Prince Albert. The executive of the company consists of A. D. Davidson, president; W. D. Douglas, vice-president; G. C. Howe, of Minneapolis, treasurer; and A. D. McKelvie, secretary. Messrs. A. J. Adamson, of Rosthern, and D. H. McDonald, of Qu'Appelle, are among the board of directors.

Mr. Davidson is one of the largest stock farmers in Minnesota and Mr. Douglas is president of the Quaker Oats Co., Cedar Rapids. Among the other founders of the company are Thomas E. Wells, of Chicago, one of the largest dealers in live stock in the union; F. E. Kenaston, president of the Minneapolis Threshing Machine Co., and who last week bought out the John Abell Engine Co., of Toronto; G. C. Howe, a well known Duluth capitalist; A. R. Davidson, of Little Falls, a well known Minnesota financier; and O. E. Warner, of Minneapolis.

The company will at once open a land office at some central point in their holdings. Townships will be at once surveyed at Finsbury, Girvan, Craik, Houghton, Bladsworth and Hanley. These places have up to the present been merely names on a map. There is reason to believe that in a short time they will be flourishing agricultural and commercial centres, with stores, elevators and all the other necessities of thriving farm towns.

They also propose to erect at once a number of farm houses, stables, etc., in different districts, and break from 25 to 50 acres in connection with each dwelling. This will enable the purchaser to get to work at once, immediately on taking possession, and give him a crop the first year. By this means a year will be saved. Mr. Wm. Henley, of Qu'Appelle, who inspected the lands purchased by the company, leaves on Monday next with a party to select the points at which this work will be done.

It is expected that a large number of American farmers will be brought out by the new company, which has influential connections in financial circles and over a hundred business correspondents throughout the Central and Northern States. The immigration department will give its active co-operation in the efforts to colonize the land.

Subsidy for Western Road.

Ottawa, May 14.—Before the House rose last night the estimates had, with a couple of exceptions, all been passed.

The prime minister made the following announcement: "I may take advantage of this opportunity to give an answer to the numerous applications which have been made for some assistance in railway construction. The government has decided not to ask parliament this year for any appropriation for that object. At the same time we are not unmindful of the fact that railway development is more than ever a pressing necessity. This is especially true of railway construction in the fertile lands of the Northwest Territories, in the valley of the North Saskatchewan river, towards which large numbers of settlers are now rapidly and numerous flocking. It is due to these people that they should be assured that their wants in that respect are engrossing the attention of the government, and it is hoped that next session assistance will be given to the construction of a railway by as rapid stages as possible from some point on the western boundary of Manitoba through the Saskatchewan valley towards Edmonton."

McKenzie & Mann Acquire

Nova Scotia Central.

Frederic Press, May 14.—Messrs Mackenzie and Mann, the Canadian railway owners and contractors, concluded another deal in this city to-day by which they gain control of the Nova Scotia Central railway from Middleton to Lunenburg, a distance of seventy miles. This line has been in operation for a number of years. It was in liquidation and recently has been held by the Halifax Banking company. It runs through a prosperous and thickly settled country and taps at the Dominion Atlantic railway and at Bridgewater connects with the proposed south shore line from Halifax to Yarmouth, which Mackenzie, McKenzie and Mann are under contract with the government of Nova Scotia to construct. In addition to this railway Mackenzie and Mann have received 150,000 acres of timber land granted to the original owners of the Nova Scotia Central by the province. This land will supply all the wood required for ties and bridges on the South Shore railway. The Nova Scotia Central will form an important link in the Messrs. Mackenzie and Mann trunk system and is part of the Webb-Meyer projected air line from Cape Breton to Boston.

Messrs. Mackenzie and Mann announce that they will start work on the South Shore line immediately.

London, May 14.—A despatch from Harpors, British Burma, says that a lifeboat belonging to the British steamer Camorta, overdue at that point from Madras, has been picked up in the Bay of Bengal. The Camorta was reported to have had 650 passengers on board.

Mules for C. N. R. Construction.

Eighteen carloads of obstinacy was the way one of the trainmen on the Canadian Northern described the dozen and a half freight loads of mules that pulled out of Winnipeg on Wednesday last. The animals were shipped to Dauphin, and are the property of Geo. H. Strevell, contractor, and will be used on railroad construction.

The animals displayed the usual frisky qualities that the mule of literature is credited with. Several of the men who loaded them on the cars who got too near their business ends had to do some lively dodging to escape heels and hoofs. One animal was especially set in its ways and it took about six men and considerable swearing to get him placed. The animals were as a rule, all fine specimens, and were purchased in the south.

MR. SECORD AT THE STURGEON.

Sturgeon, May 16th, 1902. Edmonton Bulletin.

Kindly insert, re Secord meeting at Sturgeon in an early issue.

REASONER.

Mr. R. Secord, candidate for M. L. A. at the coming election, held a meeting at the Sturgeon on Thursday evening, May 15th. There were present his wife and several of his friends, Gallagher and Brown. Mr. Short, from Edmonton, represented Mr. McCauley as the latter held a meeting on Stoney Hill, the same evening. There was a fair attendance of the residents of the settlement. Mr. George Sutherland was appointed chairman. Mr. Gallagher, the same evening. He arose and said a few words which for a stranger to hear would lead him to imagine that Mr. McCauley was stealing his (Mr. Gallagher's) good deeds and calling them his own. We may inform Mr. Gallagher that Mr. McCauley was credited with doing a great many things that have proved beneficial to the town and country a long time before there was ever a Mr. Gallagher known here. After Mr. Gallagher came our would-be member's address. "Well! Well! Well!" "Wonders will never cease!" It is possible that a gentleman with no ability to even address a few words to a few farmers will offer himself to be our representative at a government house. Mr. Secord has our sympathy, for he certainly shows that his career as a politician will be of short duration, and the shorter the better for both himself and this constituency without language, and without nerve what can he do? How does he feel? After Mr. Secord's attempt to address, Mr. Brown stepped on the platform. He began by explaining that the last speaker was a man of few words (very few words). He pointed out how Mr. McCauley and the government were pulling together in fact he actually gave Mr. McCauley credit for being a shrewd man, and he was getting what he wanted from Mr. Brown. He said that Mr. McCauley worked Mr. Haultain like a toy doll. He pulled the strings and Mr. Haultain's arms. "That's not serious." In all, Mr. Brown's address was but a tiresome affair. He clearly showed that he was pleading for a poor cause. After Mr. Secord's address Mr. Short got up and gave the audience simply a grand address. He pointed out the advancement of our country under its present government; the difficulty it was for any man with a limited amount of money to get roads everywhere in shape for the settlers, seeing that only a few years ago such expenditures were not needed.

After Mr. Short's speech Mr. Brown replied while we and our "would-be" listened again.

This time I do not know if he got tired but I know full well the audience did, as nothing of any interest was brought up.

About half past eleven the meeting adjourned till the coming Wednesday when we will meet again to mark our ballot for a gentleman who can take his own part or for one that cannot.

44. JAMES McDONALD,

Pork Packing Houses.

Everyone is familiar with the history of the wonderful development of the export bacon trade in Canada during the past ten or twelve years. In 1880 our export of bacon, lard, hams, pork, &c., amounted to less than 8,000,000 lbs.; in 1900 it had risen to about 136,000,000 lbs. The province of Ontario has been the chief exporter, but the time has come when we may expect to see a change in this respect; Much of Quebec, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island is admirably adapted to dairying, a branch of farming which is rapidly extending from Montreal eastward, as well as in Ontario. The dairy districts produce the class of hog, from which the finest Wiltshire bacon is made, and in these districts hogs are put on the market at as low a cost per pound as in any section of Canada. General dairying and hog growing should go together, as neither will flourish to its highest development without the other. The eastern and northern sections of Ontario produce a better class of hog than the corn belt of western Ontario and the other words, the section of Ontario which more clearly resembles Quebec and the Maritime Provinces in climate and grain products, produces the best class of bacon. In some respects these provinces are better suited than Ontario for the development of this industry. Land is generally cheaper, pastures are super, and roots and other crops easily raised. Two conditions are necessary in order to develop this industry in Quebec and the eastern provinces, especially the latter, an abundance of coarse grains, which by attention to agriculture can be abundantly produced, and the establishment of packing companies, (or the extension of those already established), which will fully meet the requirements of the best markets, both at home and abroad.

During the past year or two, I have had frequent requests from other provinces for information regarding the establishment of co-operative packing factories, such as have recently been put up at several points in Ontario. The practical results of these co-operative movements have been demonstrated by the Danish farmers, who are becoming more and more interested in improving the quality and shape of the pig, as through this medium alone they have succeeded in placing their bacon and pork in a foremost position, both for quality and shape, on the London market, while the fact of these co-operative factories being established all over Denmark, shows that a success they have been through.

There are several points, however, that should always be observed, in connection with the establishment of these pork packing factories or co-operative plan. In the first place, they should be installed as nearly as possible along the Great Lakes, with only farmers as shareholders, and each one allowed to hold only a limited amount of stock. No speculators should be permitted to invest in the company. In the next place it is absolutely necessary that the individual subscriber shall have faith in his own company. The practice of farmers subscribing to these movements and then selling their hogs to the highest bidder, often to firms competing against their own company, is all wrong, and entirely different from the "modus operandi" in Denmark. The success of Canadian co-operative factories is absolutely registered and controlled by the loyalty of the farmer, who has, as yet, scarcely realized the importance of operating along co-operative lines. Still another necessary feature is that all proxies should be concentrated in the hands of a council of not more than seven, preferably five of the very best men among them, brainy, practical business men, who are not likely to be led away by fads, or driven from business principles by factious opposition.

A Lesson in Butter Making.

Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Canada enjoys the unique position of being unable to suffer from over production as she tops in quality, as she can do, all competitors without more than the use of ordinary diligence, care, and prudence. To get trade a country must supply a want; and to make that trade permanent that want must be supplied at a standard of quality superior to its competitors, or at a price lower than theirs. Canada produces what Great Britain and the rest of the world cannot do without; but while she sells it at a market rate favorable to her customers, she is not making the most out of her latent material wealth. Her farmers and commercial men are not yet educated up to the operation. And it is not grand-motherly legislation for the agricultural department of the country to lead them towards greater prosperity than has been enjoyed heretofore.

Frequently one hears complaints about white thread-like streaks appearing in butter. This is sometimes due to errors in the salting and working of the butter. If the salt is added to the butter while the latter is still in the regular condition and not too large quantities at a time, so that it may dissolve quickly and be distributed throughout the mass of butter to some extent before working begins, there will not be so much trouble from streakiness. If, however, working is begun before any salt has been added, as it sometimes the practice, the salt is then thrown on the smooth surface from which the water has been removed, and the result is that the salt does not dissolve readily, but remains for some time in a partially dissolved layer between the surface of the butter. There is, probably, a sort of bleaching of the butter by the chemical action of the salt in this strong solution, the effect remaining in the shape of white streaks when the undissolved salt finally disappears.

"Mottled" butter is a different thing altogether. It is produced as the result of not having the salt evenly distributed throughout the mass of butter, either through careless addition of the salt, instead of working or working at unsuitable temperatures. The parts which contain the most salt have the deepest color; this is the natural effect of the addition of salt to butter in proper quantities. It is when the salt and the butter come together in layers, and remain so for some time, that the bleaching occurs, which causes the "streakiness."

As Mr. J. A. Riddick, chief of the dairying division, has pointed out, time after time, the commercial value of Canadian butter can in no way be more easily advanced than by paying the utmost attention to finish and appearance. Use good parchment paper so as to fully protect your product. Avoid slovenliness in putting up butter for exportation; use black, not red stencilling, because in the British markets red stencilling is the outward and visible sign of inward "milked" or "laded" milk, or very inferior grades of butter.

By this we do not advise black stencilling on qualities which really should be marketed as such. It is factories would follow the practice of putting a distinguishing mark on all packages of dairy produce which is inferior to the quality of the goods. Many a shipment of cheese or butter, of passable quality except a few "culls," is condemned to wholesale because the trier happens to drop on the inferior samples. These "culls" are sometimes included among the good in the hope that they may escape detection. But this has become almost impossible, and the best advice is to "not try it on."

The possibilities of the export butter trade are limited only by the available supply, provided the quality be honest and constantly maintained at "excellent." This is shown by the fact that while in 1890 the export butter trade of Canada amounted to only $340,131, a year ago it exceeded $5,100,000; and the exports of butter in 1901 were nearly double of 1900, and exceeded in value those of any previous year.

During last summer there was a falling off in Canadian butter exports, bought about by the comparatively high price which our cheese was fetching; for as cheese was paying better than butter the factory men kept on making it. To-day there is no longer any doubt that the export butter trade of high quality, and if our dairymen respond expeditiously, 1902 will be the banner year in Dominion history so far for butter exports.

A need in the butter business is better buildings in the creameries—improvements in construction in their drainage apparatus, and in their equipment. These changes must be effected or we cannot expect to hold a prominent place in the markets against our progressive Danish, New Zealand, Victorian and Russian, and other competitors. It is necessary, also, to provide for pasteurizing the cream from which butter is to be made for export. Among the various minute and low forms of life which are present as germs in milk and cream there is the constant struggle for survival which in a cultivated field goes on between weeds and useful plants. The careful farmer tills the soil to keep the weeds from growing; but in the case of milk and cream, and thus put it into a milk or cream, and thus put it into a pure "starter" to yield the desired flavor. Pasteurization does not destroy all the germs in milk or cream any more than cultivation eradicates all the weeds; but it decreases their number. Sterilization when efficient destroys all forms of life; but pasteurization destroys about all of those which are injurious to the quality of dairy products. The condition thus created gives the germs of fermentation or souring which are introduced by the starter a good chance to become the prevailing if not the only ones; so that the flavors which are results of ripening or souring are those characteristic of the germs of the "starter." The latter treatment should be such as to prevent any germs which may develop of any bad flavors from becoming active in the butter; and this is the use of cold storage.

The process of pasteurizing consists of heating the cream to a temperature of 158 to 160 degrees Fahr., and cooling it rapidly to the ripening temperature by the use of some special cooling apparatus. Wherever this has been carried out properly in Canadian creameries the results have given better keeping qualities to the butter, and have remedied faults in flavor in cases where taints of various sorts had previously been troublesome.

When only the quality of the butter has to be considered it is sufficient to pasteurize the cream after separation; but when it is also desired to lessen the danger to heat the milk before separation, and cool the skim milk and cream afterwards. A temperature 185 degrees Fahr., is sufficient to destroy disease germs likely to be found in milk; and whole milk may be heated to that temperature, with proper appliances and handling, without giving any objectionable flavor to the butter made from it.

In making butter from pasteurized cream the preparation and use of the "fermentation starter" are important parts of the operation. About two quarts of skim milk are heated to 205 Fahr., and held at that point for ten minutes, after which the milk is cooled to 80 degrees Fahr., by pouring it into a vessel to another, exposed to the atmosphere of the butter-making room. It is then left in a tightly closed glass jar at that temperature for ten minutes, in summer from 60 to 75 degrees, until it is coagulated and has a mild lactic acid flavor. This method can only be successful when the atmosphere to which it is exposed is free from germs which cause undesirable odors and flavors. When the "culture" as this is called, has been prepared, a quantity of skim milk, which is pure, sweet and free from taint, should be heated to 150 degrees Fahr., and left at that temperature for ten minutes. It may then be cooled to a temperature of from 60 to 70 degrees Fahr., when a portion of the "culture" as already described, at the rate of from 5 to 10 per cent should be added to it, and well mixed with it. That is the "starter" to be used. The "culture" is left to ripen at a temperature not exceeding 70 degrees Fahr. When it has become distinctly sour and is nearing the point of coagulation, further development should be checked by lowering the temperature. The "starter" may be added to the cream at the rate of from 3 to 6 per cent of the quantity where the cream has become tainted; if the taint be of fermentation origin, or of other quality than that of the fermentation "starter" should be added. This will check the taint and leave the particular fermentation of the "starter" to be raised. It is in the cream and butter. To be most effective the "starter" should be added to the cream very soon after it has coagulated. After this point has been reached it deteriorates in activity as a "starter" and undesirable flavors are apt to develop in it.

MR McCauley's Meeting.

Robertson Hall was well filled by the meeting called by Mr. McCauley and his supporters on Saturday night. Mayor Short, who occupied the chair, invited the other candidates or their representatives to a seat on the platform. Messrs. Villeneuve, Tait, McKimley, took advantage of the invitation.

The chairman announced that Mr. McCauley would open the proceedings and that the opposition would then be permitted to address the meeting, each speaker to be allowed half an hour, and the meeting would close by Mr. McCauley replying.

When Mr. McCauley rose he was greeted with shouts of applause. He stated that he felt it his duty, as a claimant for a seat at Regina, to come before the meeting and explain his views. He announced that he was an out and out supporter of the Haultain government and that for reason was able to procure what he asked from the government.

Referring to the campaign meetings Mr. McCauley informed his hearers that, prior to any appointment he had called on Mr. Secord and explained to him the reasons for his position. Mr. Secord had the privilege of speaking first or second, as he chose. This offer was declined. He registered Mr. Secord's absence to-night. Mr. McCauley now proceeded to review his own course for the past seven years. He said he had supported the government because the ablest and best men at Regina were at the head of affairs. The various ordinances passed during the term touched on. Some explanation was given as to the operation of the one bearing on local improvements. It was explained how the "large" local improvement ordinance affected the big corporations such as the H. B. Co. and the C. P. R.; this ordinance was originally devised so that the big corporations should be taxed. An explanation was given regarding the lawsuit between the government and the H. B. Co. He said that the H. B. Co. had agreed to pay $31,000 for past years and submitting to the ordinance for the future. This year, said Mr. McCauley, the H. B. Co.'s taxes amounted to $61,000. A reference was made to the large tracts of land owned by Messrs. McHugh and Secord, who would doubtless have to pay taxes. The speaker held that the government deserved credit for their action, moreover, arrangements are made for the expenditure of those moneys on local improvements in the districts in which the taxes are levied.

Mr. McCauley claimed that the work done by the agriculture department had assisted the farmers in the Territories, who are now placed nearly on a par with the farmers of Ontario. As any thoroughbred stock can be brought in for $5.00 per head and as a result of this the stock through the country is much improved. They had also established a stock show and sale held at Calgary, where farmers could exhibit and dispose of their thoroughbreds. The noxious weed, imported of seed grain and the fence and pound ordinances were also referred to. As chairman of the agricultural committee the speaker claimed that the work had been accomplished by that committee than by any other at Regina. The next explanation was his stand regarding the division of the Territories. Mr. McCauley said he had been accused of voting against two provinces. This was not true. The opposition said that the Territories should be divided into two provinces. Had it been divided into a north and south province, the boundary of the south province would have been at the Athabasca Landing, but they were not of one mind and could not agree. Had that division been made we would be in the same position as we are now. During the discussion, "I held I did not think it was a question of territory, but it was a question of terms and I believe the majority were of the same mind and I am of opinion that no division should be made until the terms are decided on; if I am wrong in this there are twenty-three others in the same position."

Mr. McCauley now spoke on the road ordinance claiming it was a benefit to every person in the country, and that he had heard of, but one complaint, this was in the case of Robert Kelly, which would be settled satisfactorily. In two thousand cases not an appeal had been made. In the same ordinance a farmer could dig a ditch for drainage across his neighbor's land. Since this law came into force there had been thirteen hundred and fifty cases of which thirteen hundred had been settled amicably.

Now as to the registry office. Mr. McCauley said what he asked for was the control of the registry offices, not for the removal "the man who says that says what is not true. I was in the confidence of the government and knew the office would not be removed, it is here yet and the staff is increased."

An increase in the salaries of the ministers was voted for because these men were good men, and were worth the money. Had the opposition been in power Mr. McCauley would have agreed to reduce their salaries.

As to cutting off the roads to Edmonton, this statement is misleading; you know, said the speaker, it is not true, but probably Mr. Villeneuve can explain. "I claim more money has been spent in my district than in any other around Edmonton. Mr. McCauley explained that he had on occasions voted against the government and had proposed amendments and had moreover carried them through—that was more than the opposition had done. He had done this sometimes much against the wish of the government.

Mr. McCauley referred to his long residence, of 22 years, in Edmonton; saying that he still resided here and will continue to do so, and if elected, if he wanted to leave for Beaver Lake, he would resign and was willing to put up a bond for $5,000 to that effect.

At the close of this address the audience signified their approval by applauding.

Mr. Villeneuve now came forward on behalf of Mr. R. Secord and apologized for that gentleman's unavoidable absence and announcing that Mr. Secord would be present at his own meeting to be held on Tuesday night.

Mr. Villeneuve opened his remarks by stating that when he voted against Mr. McCauley he would not offer himself at the coming election and that Mr. McCauley had said he would not run, but that he was looking for a good man. Well he had found himself. Mr. McCauley says he did not vote against the two provinces. It is sure the opposition did not. I think that Messrs. Sifton and Bullock do not regret this; they were only looking for good men. Mr. McCauley had said he would not run, but that he was looking for a good man. Well he had found himself. Mr. McCauley says he did not vote against the two provinces. It is sure the opposition did not. I think that Messrs. Sifton and Bullock do not regret this; they were only looking for good men.

The speaker said that Mr. McCauley takes the credit for every good thing done by the house. The opposition does not vote against good measures. I do not say Mr. Secord will be on the opposition. He will go to Regina as an independent.

Continuing Mr. Villeneuve said as to the Edmonton registry office, had the measure carried the six offices would have merged into two. "If Mr. McCauley had the promise of the government to incorporate the H. B. Co. and the member for MacLeod had the same promise. Edmonton has not got the 'pull.' Calgary has the C. P. R., and power behind it. Mr. McCauley's action was at least dangerous."

The speaker claimed it was the duty of the government to attend to our business and keep out of politics. There are no politics in our government. "I was not elected on the issue of provincial autonomy, nor was Mr. McCauley, therefore it is the people who must ignore the mandate. Mr. Clifford Sifton in the federal house, stated that the government would not grant provincial autonomy and that the Northwest government had not been badly treated and that an understanding had been arranged, to last three or four years."

The question, Mr. Villeneuve said, before the electors now, is to decide if Mr. McCauley has done his duty. Referring to the road ordinance the speaker claimed that the owner of the land should have the right to appeal. Mr. Villeneuve now, in reference to the sum of $100, granted last year for the repairs of the St. Albert road, accused Mr. McCauley of indifference and neglect of attention to that matter for the express purpose of injuring him.

In concluding Mr. Villeneuve alluded to the capability of Mr. Secord and urged the electors to support him as against McCauley.

Mr. McKimley followed in a perfect whirlwind of oratory calling forth applause and laughter in turns. He posed as the representative of the poor farmer, who was compelled to wade and flounder through mud holes, and at the end of the year perhaps have fifty cents to put in the bank, and these are the poor people who are called upon to put up $5,000 for the premier to attend a meeting lasting five hours and to "see a man dressed in ribbons or rags." After dilating in a Johnsonian style on various points Mr. McKimley thought, in spite of all his quotations and allusions that with good representation (either Mr. Brox or Mr. Secord, he did not state which) that this country, by the end of the next 10 years would be the best of all the provinces of Canada.

Mr. McCauley now addressed the meeting in defence, explaining the different points brought out by the opposition. He then asked the electors to judge him by his past public record, comparing his own record with that of Mr. Secord when he served them as a member of the Edmonton town council. If they were satisfied he had done his duty then he expected their support on polling day.

Three cheers were given for McCauley and the meeting broke up. A good gathering of Mr. Secord's supporters were present. It is but fair to state that the meeting was conducted in the greatest decorum and was one of the most orderly campaign gatherings ever held.

BON ACCORD

At the meeting called by Mr. Secord and his supporters, held here on Friday night, the attendance was not very large. There being only about fifteen present. Thos. Mulligan took the chair. No one appeared to speak. Mr. McCauley's behalf as there was a meeting elsewhere.
